Vancouver Community College enjoys national and international recognition for its multilingual programs in interpreter training. A pioneer since the inception in 1979 of its award-winning Court Interpreting Program, VCC offers up-to-date practical training to prepare bilingual speakers to work as effective interpreters in the legal and health care systems and in social services. Faculty members who are highly qualified practitioners in their field, bring first-hand experience, skill and professionalism to provide close individual language-specific instruction that is firmly rooted in "real" interpreting situations.

Candidates should have an excellent knowledge of English and another language with strong oral communication skills and an aptitude for interpreting. Post-secondary education is strongly recommended (at least two years).
