ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to thank the local newspapers, The Buy and Sell, The Province,
The Vancouver Courier and The Vancouver Sun for copyright clearance.
Use of their ads, charts and forms will help students to learn to read and to learn what kinds of information they can find in a newspaper.

I would also like to thank Lower Intermediate instructors in the ELS
Department of King Edward Campus, Vancouver Community College, for field-testing the exercises.

Thank you to Vancouver Community College for curriculum development time to start this project.

And lastly, thank you to Instructional Media Services and the Editorial Board of Vancouver Community College.

TO THE TEACHER

In preparing Scanning A Local Newspaper, exercises have been developed which adult ESL and literacy students will find interesting and relevant to their lives as consumers. Students will also learn to scan non-prose parts of the newspaper with increasing speed. These exercises are intended to be snappy and easy to use.

This book was first written for and tested with adult Lower Intermediate ESL students at King Edward Campus, Vancouver Community College using Vancouver newspapers. However, Scanning A Local Newspaper could also be used at higher or lower ESL levels or with adult literacy classes. Similar exercises could be developed from newspapers in your town.

Procedure for Teaching Scanning

The exercises in this book are arranged from easiest to most difficult. Students can be asked to complete increasingly difficult exercises in a time limit of, say, four minutes* by starting at the beginning of the book and working through the exercises in order - two or three per day. The following five steps take about fifteen minutes.

1. Have students open their books to the correct page and then turn their books face down.
2. Explain where and how answers are written on the "Answer and Progress Sheets." (You may want to make a photocopy of this page for each student before class.)
3. When you say "start" have students turn their books face up and work as quickly as possible to find answers to questions.
4. After four minutes, say "stop".
5. Have students mark their answers in groups of three or four. They must reach a consensus and should verify their answers by pointing to the part of the ad that contains the answer. Have groups of students prove their answers to you occasionally. Point out when other groups have reached a different consensus.

* Four minutes works well for most Lower Intermediate classes but you may want to change the time to accommodate your class.

Other Ways to Use the Book

1. After students have completed Exercise 1, have students interview each other and then display the information.
 - a. Using Figure 1 as a guide, have students interview a partner.
 - b. Have students write up the information.
 - c. Add photos to the information by having students bring a picture from home or by bringing a camera to class and having students photograph each other.
 - d. Put up a "Smile of the Day" bulletin board or, alternatively, "publish" the results in a book.
2. Use exercise 9 or 15 on cars as a pre-reading or pre-writing exercise.
 - a. Have students do the exercise and mark it.
 - b. Discuss cars students own, whether or not they like them, why they bought them, how they bought them, and what their ideal car would be.
 - c. Have students read a story about cars or write a composition about cars.
3. Use an exercise from the book as a model for a similar exercise from a more recent or more local paper. Then have other classes complete the student-made exercises.
 - a. Get a set of recent local newspapers and then select ads which match those in the book. If you can find more than one match, groups can work on different ads.
 - b. Have students do the exercise from the book and mark it.
 - c. Have pairs of students make up a similar exercise about ads in their newspaper.

4. Use an ad from the book and a similar ad from a more recent paper to practice comparatives and superlatives. Discuss similarities and differences in the two ads and then have pairs or individuals write as many sentences as they can using comparatives and superlatives. A time limit makes this activity more challenging

Examples:

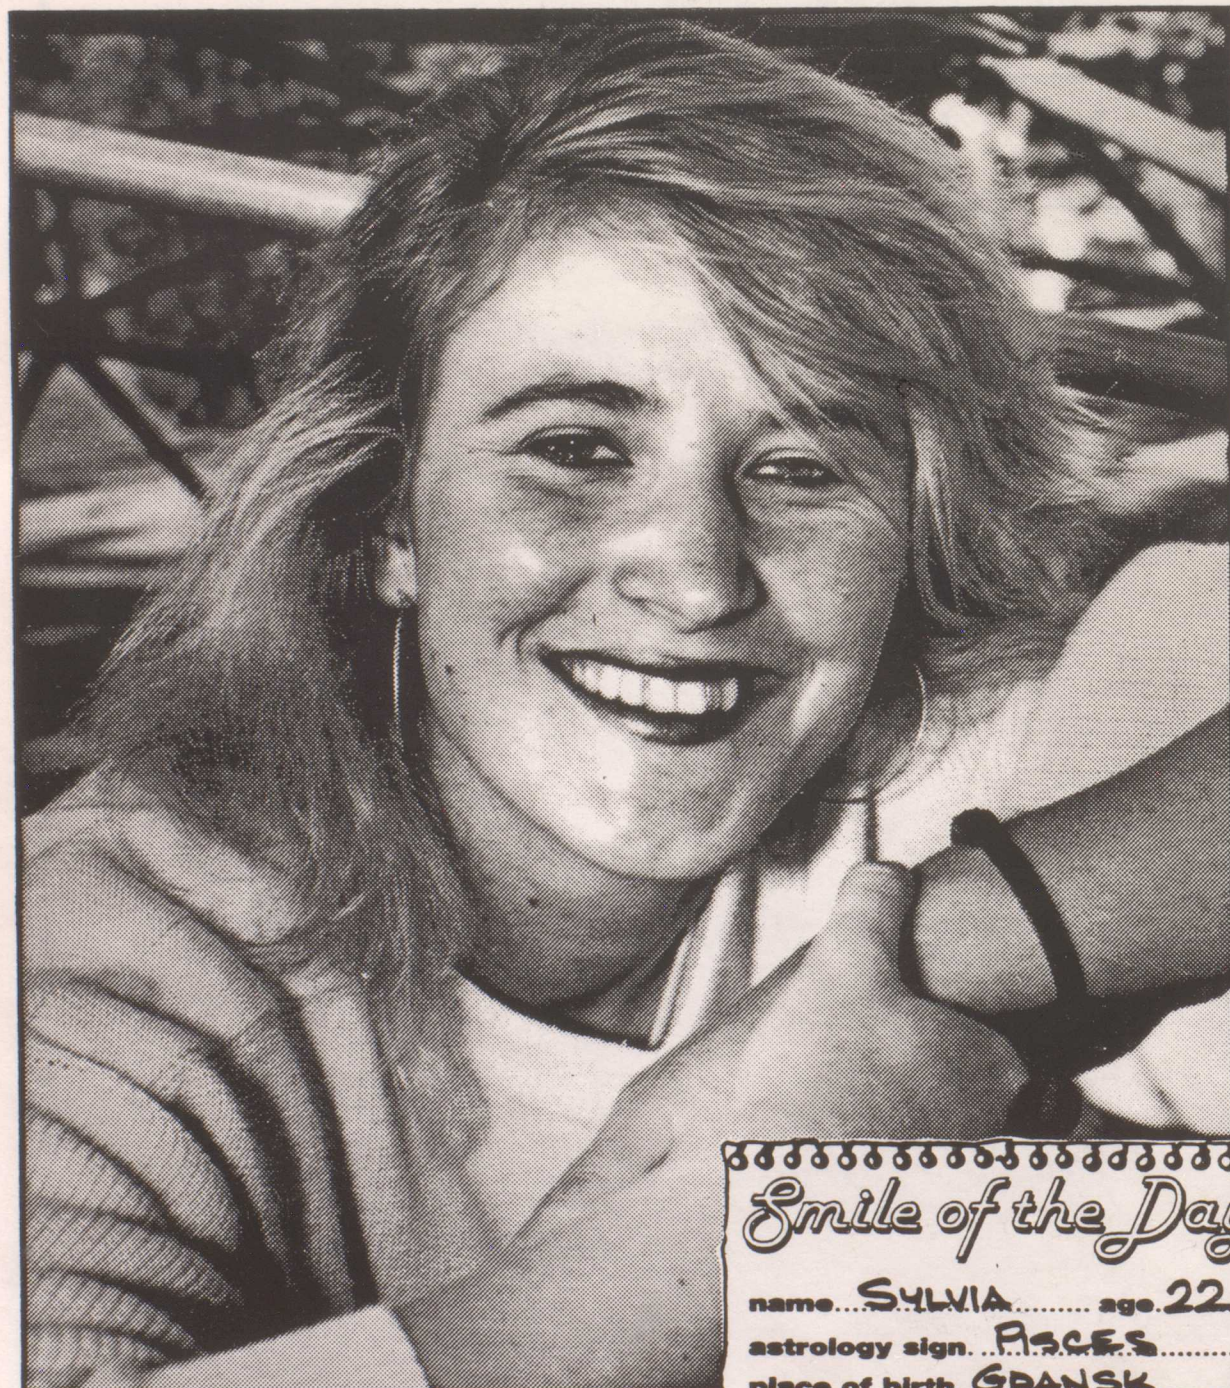

- a. The car at _____ costs more than the car at _____.
 - b. _____'s produce is cheaper.
 - c. The temperature in _____ is/was hotter than in _____.
 - d. _____ has the lowest prices.
5. Use an ad as a stimulus for a dialogue.
 - a. Have students do and mark an exercise about a consumer product, for example, Exercise 3, 11, 22 or 24.
 - b. Have pairs of students make up a phone dialogue inquiring about an item in the ad, a dialogue between friends or spouses considering buying an item, or a dialogue between a salesperson and a customer.
 6. Have students write their own classified ads.
 - a. Have students do Exercise 6, 9, 11, 19, 20, 23, or 25 and mark it.
 - b. Have students look for and then discuss any abbreviations they don't understand. The Standard Abbreviations Chart in figure 8 will help them figure out what many abbreviations mean.
 - c. Have students write their own ads.
 - d. Using the Index in Figure 13, have students decide whether their ad would fit in Section One of The Buy and Sell.

HOROSCOPE

By SYDNEY OMARR

♈ ARIES (March 21-April 19): You'll be saying, "At last I am going to get a break!" Applies to finances, special appointment, unique relationship. Dialogue with Gemini helps sharpen tools, wits. Protect written material.

♉ TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You're coming closer to main objective. Scenario features home, money, security, acquisition of art object or luxury item. Marital status continues to command attention.

♊ GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Separate fact from fancy. Delve deep, check resources, perfect techniques. Spotlight also on basic issues, employment, key personnel.

♋ CANCER (June 21-July 22): Those who attempt to intimidate should be told, "You no longer frighten me!" Emphasis on power, deadline, intensity, greater financial security. Adhere to your own style.

♌ LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Finish rather than initiate project. Special relationship undergoes test. Negotiations finished regarding sale or purchase of property. Don't stay too long at the fair.

♍ VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Trip that had been delayed now could get started. Take initiative, stress independence, don't be afraid to be vulnerable. You'll get to heart of matters in connection with love relationship.

♎ LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some said you could never do it. Now you can say, "I told you so!" Emphasis on family, home, divergent views. Payment will be made despite initial objections.

♏ SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You'll say, "As you can see, I'm not such a bad person!" You win big, competition is stifled, and you can afford to be generous. More people will be on your side as popularity rating grows.

♐ SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Feeling of being "locked in" will not last. You could make almost immediate break for freedom. You have facts and figures and should check accounting methods.

♑ CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be ready for discovery, variety, ability to overcome technicalities. Open lines of communication. Sales ability could reach fever-pitch. Scenario highlights romance, creativity, style.

♒ AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You'll ask, "Who said I lost count?" Spotlight continues on prestige, reward, participation in community or civic project. Interest in politics will be fanned.

IF OCT. 3 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY get ready for move which will take place in November. You may not believe it at this moment, but significant domestic adjustment is on horizon. Involves residence, lifestyle, family relationships, marital status. You have remarkable sense of humor, are versatile, restless, willing to experiment. Gemini, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. During remainder of October, lines of communication open wide. You'll charm your way to "inner circle."
