Summertime...
And the livin' is easy!

Members of the VCC Social Club relax and enjoy a feast that included such mouth-watering treats as smoked salmon, roasted corn-on-the-cob and potato salad at the recent Bar-B-Que held at Ceperly Park.

Farewells are not always sad!

June is generally retirement month and this June was no exception, City Centre lost many of its stalwart colleagues to leisure's siren call. Margaret Dennis (pictured to the right) was given a hilarious send off on June 30th from the members of her department that included twelve of her former Department Heads. The highlight of the evening had to be Susan Lesko's side-splitting parody of Margaret's orientation for new students. You had to be there!

Also over the wall is Brian Pinkerton, Llama Breeder par excellence from Printing Production, Paul Petit and Hans Vanderlinden, Culinary Arts, and Marjorie Kitchener, Hairdressing who has packed her bags and is off on "walk about" in Australia. We'll miss you all! Happy Retirement!

Onward & Upwards! Appointments at City Centre

After serving admirably for 17 months as Department Head, Allan Clarkson has decided to relinquish the Headship in order to devote more time to other counselling related interests. I am happy to say that he will remain with us at City Centre.

I am very pleased to announce that Hilary Pearson is the new Department Head of Counselling, effective June 1, 1992. Hilary has been a counsellor at City Centre since 1989. She holds a Master's degree in Counselling Psychology from U.B.C. and has a broad range of counselling experience as well as an extensive history of involvement on committees here at City Centre.

I am sure you will join me in wishing Hilary much success in her new role as well as extending her your support and cooperation, and in thanking Allan for having done an excellent job of representing the Counselling Department during his tenure. Sam Digiando humour ...

!Oh, Canada!

In an attempt to find some humour in our current constitutional "crisis" and the with the August long weekend fast approaching, a little food for thought for all of you planning on heading south. The following is a reprint from the "Voice" March 17, 1992. Reprinted with permission of the author.

Brian's Conspiracy

by Jason Proctor

Are there any real Americans in North Western Washington?

The question occurred to me about 10 kilometres past the Peach Arch crossing. There were hundreds of cars on the highway and not one Washington license plate.

It hit me again in Bellis Fair mall.

"Do you take Canadian money?" I asked.

When the sales clerk stopped laughing, I realized what a fool I'd been. Cross-shopping is, of course a myth.

And the truth? Well, here's my stab at what's become known as the 'cross-border conspiracy'.

It all began in 1988, when Brian Mulroney made a top secret pact with former President Ronald Reagan. The United States agreed to rent the state of Washington to Canada as a franchise shopping centre. Canada staged a Free-Trade agreement with the States at that time in order to divert attention from the pact.

Rent for the state was secretly channelled to Nicaragua via a phoney prostate surgery fund for Reagan.

The plan was simple. Canada would build the shops and collect the commission. The United States would provide "Americans" to work in Washington. They looked, talked and acted like real American citizens, but were, in fact a crack acting troupe headed by Mr. America, himself, Dick Clark.

And you wondered why accents just five kilometres across the border are so different from ours?

Slowly but surely, Mulroney began testing the waters for his master plan. His first step was the raising of gasoline prices. Next came beer, cigarettes, milk and cheese.

Canadian prices went up, and Mulroney's franchise grew.

By the time Labatt's Blue was available at half price in Point Robert's liquor stores, American cows began looking for union representation, and the emirate of Kuwait appointed and ambassador to Bellingham, Mulroney knew the time had come for his master stroke.

He called it the GST, and it was foolproof. By adding a seven percent tax to every purchase Canadians made, Mulroney made it impossible to resist the temptation of cross-border shopping. Even the most patriotic fool wouldn't throw money away to support this tax and Mulroney knew it. Cash registers rang, Bellis Fair grew, and money flowed into the reserves of the Federal Conservatives.

Conspiracy? A plan? Renting the state of Washington? Yes, of course, none of it is true, but how else can you explain this situation? How else can you explain a set of insane government policies that result in border line-ups, mass media discussion and the need for a cross-border shopping fast-lane at Peach Arch.

Think about it the next time no-one blinks an eye as you pull out Canadian dollars in American stores. Think about it and wonder where the sales clerk really comes from.

Here's your chance to really communicate!

Counselling & Advising Update

How can we help you?

The demand for counselling by enroled students is steadily increasing. To meet that demand we have adjusted our scheduling so that a "Duty Counsellor" is available to assist enroled students from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. daily. No appointment is necessary, although students may still make appointments for times which best fit their busy schedules. We find this system is meeting the needs of both students and referring instructors.

Referring Your Students to Us:

While the educational and supportive role of Counsellors is discussed at all Student Services orientations, we rely on our colleagues in the classroom to direct students to us as soon as they become aware of a possible problem. Some Instructors phone the Counselling Department to make a referral and then direct the student to us. Other instructors actually bring a student to Counselling to make sure that they get here. Yet other instructors simply suggest that a student see a Counsellor about the problem. In this latter situation, it is important to remind students to identify themselves as enroled students when they come to the receptionist. In all cases the best results can be achieved through an early referral.

As you know, what happens in counselling is in the best interest of the student/client and as such is privileged and confidential information. This ethic allows students to approach us in confidence with an expectation of objectivity and professionalism. They know that their privacy will be respected and that every effort will be made to help them help themselves.

Consulting with Instructors:

Counsellors provide support not only for students, but also for instructors. We believe that helping students succeed in their studies involves supporting you in your role as a classroom instructor. Close liaison between program Instructors and Counsellors not only assists students but helps us to work effectively as colleagues. We are available to consult with you either in person or on the phone. As with students all consultations with instructors are viewed as privileged and confidential information.

Success Skills Workshops:

For years counsellors have offered workshops in study skills and job search skills. We present these workshops when requested by the classroom instructor. More recently we have broadened our offerings and have presented workshops in stress management, self management and communications. Now we are reaching even more students by offering lunch hour workshops in areas such as self-esteem and goal achievement, with others planned in the near future.

campus ...

Counselling strives to round out the student's experience at Vancouver Community College by addressing issues not normally covered in classroom instruction. When you have a request please approach us and we will do our very best to meet your needs.

Service to Students with Disabilities:

A variety of services are provided for students with disabilities. Wayne Avery coordinates these services. Please give him a call in the Counselling Department if you need more information or have any concerns about a student with a disability who may be in your class.

Getting Your Questions Answered:

If you have any questions about referring students to a counsellor or about how we can assist you, please talk to one of us. Your input helps us to anticipate changing needs and adjust our services to meet them.

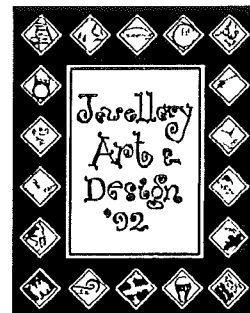

A-LINC Bumps Smokers!

There are hazards to your health just by opening your window here at City Centre. People have been known to crawl in and steal things...the bus exhaust can be a definite problem and despite designating smoking areas (anywhere outside of the building) the A-LINC staff found out that secondhand smoke is a problem. Smokers were congregating just outside the windows that service the new A-LINC area (where CEIC used to be located). The staff opened windows in search of fresh air during the recent heat spell only to find secondhand smoke with a top note of diesel exhaust drifting in. This problem was quickly resolved when the smokers were asked to move away from the building. Now if we can just convince B.C. Hydro buses to convert to propane.

Belated Congratulations! Jewellery Art & Design 92

Belated congratulations are in order for the highly successful showing by Jewellery Art & Design students for their exhibition held at Granville Island Market and on campus from June 2-12. It was a rousing success!

Ouch! - - Parking Rates Jump!

Effective August 1, 1992 the monthly parking fee for all college employees (*City Centre only) who are members of the parking pool will be increased to $45.00. (*An increase of $15.00) We regret such a large increase but it is necessary since the parking pool is in a deficit due to an increase in the parking rates charged by the QE and DPC, the impact of the GST, enlargement of the pool membership and the anticipated downtown parking tax to be imposed by the Provincial Government. (*Editor's Note)

Other measures have also been taken to enhance the monthly parking pool revenue. These include:

- * Motorcycle rate goes up to $25.00
- * Daily parking rate now up to $2.45
- * Persons with disabilities pay nominal fee.
- * Rate for College Contractors up to $80.00
- * Visitor spaces now part of membership.

Should you require any additional information, do not hesitate to call me. I am advising Pat Mulvihill, Comptroller, to make the necessary payroll deductions on the September payroll. David Kolot

VCC Press Rolling Along

Last year was both a good and busy year for VCC Press. The 1991-92 Annual Report indicates a 63% increase in revenues from booksales up to $54,000 over the previous year. Contract revenues for publishing neared the $50,000 mark.

During the year three new books were added to the Press Title List, including an ESL Video/Workbook package entitled, What Do People Really Say?, developed by KEC instructors Nina Kozakiewicz and Helen Cunningham. As well, the best-selling, College Style Shee, by Langara's Jon Furberg and Richard Hopkins, was completely overhauled in a new third edition. A national promotion of this title has led to the Style Sheet being available in college and university bookstores from St. John's, NFLD to Victoria, B.C. Foreign rights to the Professional Bakers' Manual, developed at City Centre, were sold to Prentice-Hall, which plans to produce a new edition for world-wide marketing. The second annual edition of the B.C. Transfer Guide and two editions of the 600-page Advanced Education Media Acquisition Centre's video catalogue were also produced under the supervision of managing editor Raymond Bendall.

Copies of the VCC Press Annual Report for 1991-92 are currently on reserve at VCC campus libraries, or may be requested through inter-office mail from the VCC Press office, at Langara.

This fund was established in 1989 in a tribute to Bruce's belief of supporting students to continue their education. It now stands at $232,250.00. Bruce, a former Vice-President and Division Manager of Canada Safeway was the Vice-President of the VCC Educational Foundation until his untimely death in 1989. Bruce believed that while a scholarship or bursary provided necessary financial aid, it was also a vote of confidence and encouragement for the recipient.

The Educational Foundation is entering a team(s) in the tournament. You don't have to be a scratch golfer, just willing to have a lot of laughs, good food and fabulous prizes. Call Sheilah at 871-7174 for more details. (Your entry fee will be a fully receipted donation to the Foundation.)
