1) STUDENT'S LETTER TO AN INSTRUCTOR:

"In the beginning of this Canadian Viewpoints course, you asked us to write and tell you what we would like to get out of the course.

I told you that I would like to have the ability to write with ease, and not to dread it.

Now it is the ninth of December, and I would just like to tell you that I write with pleasure now. I am not afraid to write, however little it may say, or however many lines it contains.

This little note is proof of your great gift of teaching. I am writing this, not because I have to, but because I want to - and believe me, that is a great accomplishment.

Thank you. I am very sorry to hear that you are not going to teach CV 091. I would have really looked forward to it. Why don't you reconsider?"

4) C.E.S. GENERAL INTEREST COURSES

5) PUNCTUALITY

Our students are entitled to the courtesy of an instructor being ready on time either to take a class or give an assessment.

There are times when we are unavoidably delayed. If this should happen to you, PLEASE TELEPHONE in to let us know.

One day this week, more than twenty new students had to wait a quarter of an hour for an instructor to arrive.

This is not good enough; so please help us create a keep a good Campus image. This is just one way we can do it.

Financial Support for Mini Conferences

The Association of Canadian Community Colleges has $19,500 to allocate this year as seed money for mini-conferences of faculty, administrators, College Council members or students of Canadian Community Colleges.

Conference Support Advisory Committee member Roger Elmes, of Douglas College, said "Up to $3,500 can be allocated to a group organizing a mini-conference, on the understanding that the group will budget in a manner to ensure that the seed money will be repaid to the ACCC.

In the event that the organization is unable to repay the grant it will be written off, but it is the hope of the ACCC that the fund will be of a perpetual, revolving nature," he added.

The order of priorities for funding is to activities of: (1) a national nature, (2) a regional nature, (3) an interprovincial nature and, (4) an international nature.

Under certain circumstances support may be given to intraprovincial activities, he noted.

It is anticipated that the ACCC Conference Support Advisory Committee will not be deluged with requests for grants because of the relative lack of publicity about the seed money.

Interested faculty, administrators, College Council members and students are urged to contact: Roger Elmes, Douglas College, Box 2503, New Westminster for further information before the end of December.
