4) FROM A K.E.C. STUDENT:

YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW

Yesterday I knew a man who lived far away. He was a loner in many ways. He liked to do things right the first time. He would start a project and do it until it was half done. Then he'd leave it and go to something else when he got bored. The guy I am talking about is a silent character and when he is bothered he will not say a word. When he is troubled he does nothing about it and lives with it bottled up inside himself. Until one day he starts to hurt his friends and family with his problems.

I finally met this character at a party one night and we had a long talk together. He told me about the farm and why he left. His father and mother called him stupid and bull-headed all the time. I could see the hurt in his eyes when he looked at me. When he told me about the day he left, he went through his own particular HELL -----

The reason I know this person is because this person is me and that is the way it is for yesterday, today and tomorrow.

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Jim Dineen". The signature is written in dark ink and is positioned to the right of the main text block.

P.S. ---Could this be you?
