It All Started with a Mouse...

And the mouse was named Logitech. This was no ordinary four-legged furry creature; it was a computer mouse, and it lived in the Instructional Computing Support Centre within the KEC Library. A work-study student preparing street map graphics for Ron Meyer's From Cambie to Clark - Book 2 project had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of this mouse while learning graphics software under the watchful eye of the eager lab assistant. And the mouse watched silently as romance blossomed.

On August 10, 1989, Michael Schwarz and Jo Anne Edwards were married in San Francisco, California. Mr. and Mrs. Schwarz would like to thank Ron Meyer (and of course the aforementioned rodent) for his contributory role in bringing together the happy couple.
