STUDENTS AIDING STUDENTS FUND COMPONENT OF 1986/87 WORK-STUDY PROGRAM

The above-named program is being announced by the Honourable Russell G. Fraser, Minister of Post-Secondary Education and the Honourable Terry Segarty, Minister of Labour.

Work-Study funds will be available to post-secondary students who wish to assist fellow students requiring support either as a result of a physical handicap or a language problem.

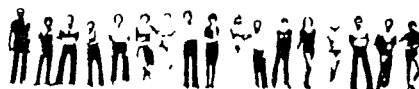

Students who require assistance are requested to contact the Financial Awards Office identifying their needs. Requests could be for an aide to move a handicapped person around campus or an E.S.L. tutor or a variety of other reasons.

Students who wish to participate as a support person in the Program will apply through the Financial Awards Office for a Work-Study position. Those selected for a position are not required to demonstrate financial need. Students who require training in order to perform the support function may be paid for up to 15 hours while acquiring that experience.

PATH OF THE PADDLE - SOLO WHITEWATER

How to steer your canoe in rapids, how to locate a deep water channel, what happens if you "wipe out" in a turbulent rapid, and how to survive the swim.

A HELPFUL HINT

We were on Galiano Island with a group of friends. The conversation, games and food were enjoyed by all.

There was a problem however - we were invaded by hundreds of wasps (insects). While trying to tolerate these aggressive "so & so's", two people were stung: a child and an adult.

One of the ladies in our group is an emergency ward nurse. The remedy she suggested was to smear deodorant (containing aluminum chlorhydrate) on the sting. Within 1/2 hour the child was up and running around again, and within 15 minutes the adult had no pain and no signs of a sting.

What a simple remedy! Just thought I would pass this information along.
Question: How do you get rid of the wasps in the first place??

INCENTIVES FOR RESTORATION OF OLDER BUILDINGS

The rehabilitation of buildings is a multi-billion dollar Canadian industry, creating tens of thousands of jobs. However, it gets worse governmental treatment (tax formulas, etc.,) than many other investments. This threatens Canada's older building stock, including Canada's heritage buildings. It can be demonstrated that a fairer governmental policy would:

- stimulate billions of dollars in investments;
- create thousands of jobs;
- restrain the exodus of construction capital;
- benefit the tourist industry;
- capitalize on Canada's building stock;
- assist municipal finance;
- help stabilize downtown retail;
- restore equity and neutrality to governmental treatment of investors;
- stimulate growth at minimum risk to Treasury;
- beautify Canada;
- stimulate public confidence; and
- complement current Canadian budgetary and economic policy.

These facts have been taken from a policy paper produced by the Buildings Revival Coalition. The two-fold objective of the Coalition is this:

To demonstrate to the government and people of Canada that it is in the public interest to:

- a) Treat investors who invest in rehab of older buildings equally with other investors (in the tax system or, if not, via compensating grants); and
- b) Give special attention to the rehab of designated heritage buildings.

Members of the Buildings Revival Coalition

The Heritage Canada Foundation	The Ontario Home Builders Association
The Canadian Institute of Planners	The Tourism Industry Assoc. of Canada
The Institute of Urban Studies	The Tourism Industry Assoc. of Nova Scotia

Among the many groups, organizations, and agencies that have called for Federal incentives for heritage preservation:

The National Council of Women in Canada	The City of Vancouver
Society for the Study of Architecture in Canada	Heritage Winnipeg
City of Winnipeg	The Society for the Protection
The Federation of Canadian Municipalities	Architectural Resources in Edmonton

The Heritage Society of B.C. is pleased to announce that Lawyer, Marc Denhez, author of "Heritage Fights Back" and the driving force behind the Buildings Revival Coalition will discuss this policy paper and how tax incentives will affect your business and community.
