SMILE OF THE WEEK

When one tugs at a single thing in nature,
one finds it attached to the rest of the world.

The Educational Services Division is pleased to announce a workshop on

ENHANCING ADULT MOTIVATION TO LEARN

Here is your opportunity to work with North America's leading authority on motivating adult learners.

Dr. Raymond Wlodkowski, Professor of Educational Psychology at the University of Wisconsin will lead our workshop. Dr. Wlodkowski is the author of "Enhancing Adult Motivation to Learn", the first text of its kind on the critical educational issue of motivating adults to learn Malcolm Knowles wrote about Dr. Wlodkowski's book, "This is the first book in our field that addresses specifically the topic of adult motivation for learning — a book that has been needed for some time. It is so clearly written, so comprehensive, and so thoroughly based on scholarship that it will become a classic in the literature of our field."

In the one-day session you will learn:

- Motivating concepts and research that support applied methods for influencing student motivation
- Planning concepts in motivational strategies for daily learning activities
- 10 "state-of-the-art" motivational strategies for enhancing learner motivation
- Standards and feedback which help to diagnose and evaluate student motivation to learn
- How to make the development of learner motivation an essential part of your instructional process.

YOU SHOULD ATTEND IF:

- You develop instructional materials for adult learners
- You instruct or train with adult learners
- You counsel adult learners.

WORKSHOP DATE AND REGISTRATION INFORMATION ARE ON THE REVERSE SIDE.

Dear Ms. Bartoszewski:

On behalf of the Career Counselling Services Department, CNIB,
I want to express our sincere appreciation in recognition of your instructional expertise and efforts in working with blind and visually impaired students.

Your commitment and endeavours to develop these students' marketable skills have greatly enhanced their employment futures.

It is of tremendous assistance to us to be able to access a most valuable community, educational resource such as Vancouver Vocational Institute.

Again, thank you so much for your professional dedication, your initiative and your co-operation.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Hamilton, A.R.W.
