TOURISM AND HOSPITALITY CENTRE OPENING

On Thursday, June 29, the new Tourism and Hospitality Centre was opened at VVI by Mr. Stan Hagen, the Minister of Advanced Education and Job Training, and Mr. Bill Reid, the Minister of Tourism, along with officials from Vancouver Community College. The new Centre is designed to offer world class training for B.C.'s fast growing tourism and hospitality sector.

The new Tourism and Hospitality Centre will combine programs already offered at VVI with programs previously offered at BCIT. The Centre will provide expert training in Baking and Pastry Arts, Continental and Asian Culinary Arts, Specialty Meat Cutting, Delicatessen Training, Restaurant Management, Hospitality Administration and Travel Agent Training.

The VVI Culinary Arts Department proved, at the reception that followed, that they already provide world class training. The ice and food sculptures were works of art, and the food that was served was both beautiful to behold and delicious to eat!

Congratulations to all the instructors and students of the Culinary Arts Department for providing such a display of their professional abilities.

WHO'S NEW AT V.V.I.

1. RYUN SINCLAIRE has been appointed, as of 1989 July 01, to the position of Department Head of the Culinary Arts (Advanced) Department. Ryun, as most of you probably know, has been an instructor in the Culinary Arts Department for a number of years.
2. ULRICH FALTER has been appointed, as of 1989 September 05, to the position of Department Head of the Culinary Arts (Basic) Department. Ulrich has been an instructor at BCIT since 1972 and the Chief Instructor of the Professional Cook Training since 1985.
3. HORST BALTZER has been appointed as Acting Department Head of the Culinary Arts (Basic) Department until Ulrich can start in September.

MORE LIBRARY NEWS

....further words from the "Instructors' Guide to the Library":

Although the library has limited funds, they are usually able to purchase "first priority" books, periodicals, and other materials to support courses. When you plan a course, revise or update content or teaching style, contact your librarian for assistance. Joint planning (and sometimes purchasing) will help the library provide useful information for you and your students.

The library's diverse book collection is comprised of course texts and a range of supplementary materials. To make sure the library is aware of changes in curriculum and course requirements it is imperative to inform them as early as possible so that books are available when needed.

THINKING ABOUT CHANGING JOBS DEPARTMENT...

GUIDE TO FINE WINES

In an attempt to educate our readers we provide the following "Guide to Fine Wines" for their edification.

1. Rare, expensive wines should never be frozen and eaten off a stick.
2. Never drink wine on an empty stomach - eat some gin first.
3. Avoid wines which must be opened with a can opener.
4. How to tell a good wine from a bad one: a good bottle is full, a bad bottle is empty.
5. A rich, dry, red wine is the proper wine to serve with franks and beans.
6. Know your grapes - skins should not be visible in bottle.
7. Wine should be red, pink or white. Be leery of green wine.
8. Never buy wine whose vintage date is "Tuesday".

HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT

TOURING YOUR COLLEGE

Many of us have worked at the College for years but have not had the opportunity to tour the different Campuses. We have put these tours together to allow you to better relate to each Campus. They are designed for all staff:

The goal of these tours is to give you a new insight into what people at the various Campuses do, where they work and the facilities available. You will also have an opportunity to meet the Administration at each campus and other College employees. Each of the tours is different so that we can determine which is the most effective and workable. Future tours are planned for the Fall and Spring.

It is suggested that staff from their "home" campus visit one of the other VCC Campuses. As space is limited, we have allocated seats on a first come, first served basis. Request permission from your supervisor to attend and then call HRD - 875-1131, local 337 to confirm a spot.
